Pope's Condition Still Very Grave

No Immediate Danger Apprehended—Two Bulletins Daily Will Be Issued—Vatican Informed if Pontiff Takes Nourishment Hourly He May Last Some Time—He Takes Food With Reluctance—Mind is Clear.

Rome, July 6, 5:50 p. m.—The pope has taken some food with appetite. The slight improvement in his condition continues. While the danger is far from removed, the feeling at the Vatican is calmer. Another consultation of the doctors will be held at 7:30 p. m., at which time the next bulletin will be issued.

Rome, July 6, 5:45 p. m.—For the first since the pope's illness took a serious turn, Dr. Laponi ventured to leave the Vatican for an hour this afternoon on urgent business. The fact aroused hopes that the pontiff is on the way to recovery, but his condition remains very grave, though no immediate danger is apprehended.

2:35 p. m.—Only two bulletins regarding the pope's health will be issued daily, the doctors agreeing that there are not sufficient changes in condition to warrant them more often. The pope insists on staying up and walking at intervals, saying that weakness is the worst part of his illness, against which the best remedy is activity.

2:45 p. m.—The pope seems somewhat prostrated after a rather exciting morning and is now enjoying much-needed sleep.

4 p. m.—A fit of coughing disturbed the pope's sleep. Coughing might benefit him, by relieving the lungs of the asthmatic obstruction, but, owing to his weak state, it is very exhausting.

The amelioration in the pope's condition this morning was so unusual, considering the gravity of his illness that it was feared that possibly it was the last flickering of the vital flame.

During this brighter interval the pope resumed his habits of command and insisted on giving orders for the preparation of the brief appointing of Monsignor Veiponi, actually secretary of letters to princes, as secretary of the consistorial congregation, a place vacant owing to the promotion to the Mgr. Nocelli to the cardinal. The importance of such an appointment, especially at the present moment, is manifest when it is considered that the pope's death the secretary of state ceases to exercise his functions, which are assumed immediately by the secretary of the consistorial congregation.

The pope objected to having the oxygen inhaling apparatus continually under his nostrils, and Dr. Laponi decided to impregnate the whole atmosphere of the room with oxygen.

"That is much better," said the pontiff. "Before, I felt as though I had lost my liberty."

Although Dr. Laponi continuously recommends the patient not to speak and pay any attention to what is passing outside and to refuse to participate in what is going on, he said, smilingly to Dr. Laponi:

"I know you say this because of your affection for me, but either my last day is rapidly approaching, in which case I must employ all the time that is left to me, so far as I can, or else I shall recover, again postponing the end. If this is the will of the Almighty then I cannot change it."

The pope raised his arm chair to be carried near his writing table and then to the window, overlooking the piazza of St. Peter.

Nothing many people in carriages, the pope said:

"The piazza looks as it does when I am able to perform some public function."

Dr. Laponi's chief task now is the maintenance of the pope's strength. Some improvement was indicated this afternoon by the fact that the patient was more willing to take nourishment, which was administered at short intervals and consisted chiefly of Bordeaux, champagne, raw eggs and broth, but the doctor would permit the pope to partake of anything in reason for which he expressed a desire, for there is special danger in the possibility of increased weakness.

The only persons allowed in the pope's bedroom this morning, besides his doctors and attendants, were Cardinal Rampella, Mgr. Bissleti, the master of the pontifical chambers, and Brig. Gen. Count Camilla Peci, of the noble guard, a nephew of the pope. The pope conversed for a long time with Count Peci, even rising and walking about his room for a few minutes leaning on his arm. The pontiff on this occasion remarked:

"Now, I am ready to depart, having settled all my affairs. I feel I have done all in my power for the good of the church and of humanity."

HE MUST TAKE FOOD.

Paris, July 6.—A dispatch to the Temps from Rome says the doctors who are attending the pope informed the Vatican officials confidently this morning that if the pontiff takes nourishment hourly he may last some time, but that if he abstains from food for more than three hours all will be over.

HIS CONDITION HOPELESS.

Berlin, July 6.—All the Rome dispatches published here represent the pope's condition as hopeless. The newspapers of this city are issuing ex-claims containing the latest telegrams on the subject of the pontiff's health.

MIND PERFECTLY CLEAR.

Washington, July 6.—The following cablegram was received today by the Catholic college:

"The condition of the holy father is still grave, but no worse. Night calm. Takes food with reluctance. Mind perfectly clear."

VATICAN POLITICS ASTIR.

Rome, July 6, 5:30 a. m.—In Vatican circles there seems to be dissatisfaction because of the rumors in circulation to the effect that those in authority, instead of preventing the pope from over-taxing his falling strength because of their own purposes urged him, contrary to his physicians' advice, to further exertion. It has been hinted that those who might be eligible candidates for the chair of St. Peter would not have many regrets should the way be left open without more delay, and that, regardless of the pontiff's feebleness, they worked upon his hesitations, natural pride in the vigor of his constitution and venerable age to encourage him to preside at the two recent consistories, as well as to undertake numerous receptions of pilgrims and other visitors to the Eternal city, notwithstanding the precarious condition of his health since the operation of 1899, which had grown much worse during the last few months.

Under the circumstances, such insinuations are energetically repudiated by those concerned.

MANY CONFLICTING STATEMENTS.

Rome, June 6.—The newspapers here contain many conflicting statements about the pope and his condition. The Times writes:

"He spends his time partly in bed and partly in an armchair. Expectation is the first sign thus far of any recovery, and it is said to be a good sign, but the pope's weakness is increasing."

All those who have seen the pope are struck with his energy. He is reported as still addressing those about him. "No doubt," the pontiff is reported to have said: "I am near my end, but I want to die in harness."

Over 500 telegrams expressing sympathy with the pope or asking for news of his condition arrived at the Vatican today, including messages from President Roosevelt and Emperor Francis Joseph. Dowager Queen Margherita is reported to have asked about news of the pontiff.

After receiving the sacrament yesterday, the pope said:

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Home of A. Burke Burned to the Ground on Saturday.

A Burke and family, residing on State street between Eleventh and Twelfth South streets, had rather an expensive Fourth of July celebration. During their absence their house was totally destroyed by fire and not any of the household furniture was saved. Mr. Burke, his wife and seven children fled to their home early Saturday morning for Lagoon to spend the day.

About 9 o'clock and shortly after they left the house was discovered to be on fire by some of the neighbors. The flames had gained such a headway that it was impossible to save anything in the house, excepting a chair or two, and as the house is outside the city limits, the fire department could not be called and the complete destruction was the result.

Mr. Burke was notified by telephone of his loss and when he arrived home there was nothing left of his home but the foundation. He is pretty heavy on Mr. Burke as it is said that he is in rather poor circumstances.

LITTLE GIRL'S SAD FATE.

Ruth Smith Fatally Burned While Playing With Fire Crackers.

(Special to the "News.") Brigham City, Utah, July 6.—While playing with fire-crackers Saturday afternoon, Ruth, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heber Smith, was so badly burned that she passed away Sunday morning. The child, it appears, had thrown a fire-cracker into the street and its failure to explode caused her to playfully pick it up and throw it over it. A moment later it exploded, setting fire to her clothing and badly burning her before her condition was discovered. She was quickly conveyed to her home and every attention given her, but she passed away yesterday morning after 15 hours' intense suffering. The sad accident has cast a pall over the community.

ARRIVED IN LONDON.

London, July 6.—President Loubet, the first president of the French Republic who has ever represented the French nation as the guest of the British court, arrived in London from Dover soon after 4 o'clock this afternoon, and was greeted at the Victoria station by King Edward and the Prince of Wales, accompanied by the cabinet ministers and a host of other distinguished persons.

With little delay the presidential party entered the royal train and departed for London. The whole railroad line from Dover to London was guarded by men stationed within sight of each other.

AT BOULOGNE-SUR-MER.

Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, July 6.—President Loubet arrived here at 10 a. m., and was accorded a hearty reception by the assembled crowds. He proceeded at once to the docks in order to attend the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the new basin. The town was overflowing with sightseers and the route of the presidential train from the suburbs to the docks was lavishly decorated with Venetian masts, trophies, bunting and triumphal arches. Fishing nets, as representative of the chief industry of Boulogne-sur-Mer, were carried by the president throughout, each hand taking up the tune as the cortege approached.

At the station another guard of honor was mounted. With little delay the presidential party entered the royal train and departed for London. The whole railroad line from Dover to London was guarded by men stationed within sight of each other.

On reaching the tastefully decorated presidential stand, M. Loubet carried out the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the new basin.

Immense crowds lined the sea front, which presented a gala appearance, the decorations being on a scale far in excess of anything previously attempted. As soon as the Guichen was sighted the Sherness fortilla of torpedo boat destroyers steamed out to meet her and escorted the French cruiser through a Wind and Wave On Salt Lake.

Former Furious and Latter High on the Great Dead Sea—Heavy Gale and Some Damage at Lucin Cut-off—Cambria II, Passengers and Crew Said to be Safe on Antelope Island—A Lone Boatman's Experience.

The big windstorm which started on Saturday night on the lake and has been "blowing big guns" ever since, has done considerable damage. From the Lucin cut-off comes the word that the huge mass of timbers, piles, stringers, caps and lumber that was confined in the big boom which covers half a square mile is adrift and is being battered around the lake in great shape by the heavy waves. The fleet of tugs consequently will have its work cut out to collect the scattered timbers when the wind and the waves subside.

Considerable anxiety has been manifested today by the relatives and friends of the party of city and county officials who started on a cruise of the lake in Capt. Davis' catamaran, Cambria II. The boat bearing the party was to have arrived at Salt Lake yesterday afternoon. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, however, the watchers at Salt Lake had not succeeded in making out any sign of a sail. If the boat should arrive tonight, they may be disappointed today by the relatives and friends of the party of city and county officials who started on a cruise of the lake in Capt. Davis' catamaran, Cambria II.

If the boat should arrive tonight, they may be disappointed today by the relatives and friends of the party of city and county officials who started on a cruise of the lake in Capt. Those in the party are City Engineer L. C. Kelsey, County Clerk John James, Capt. D. L. Davis, Deputy County Clerk W. H. Folland, T. J. Newman, John Wardrop, Deputy County Clerk D. B. Davies, Charles Wright, Dewey Davis and Robert S. Folland.

On Saturday evening a gentleman who gave the name of Gallier had a very uncomfortable experience. Clad in a bathing suit, he started to row out in the direction of Antelope island, with the result that when he undertook to return he found that he had overtaxed his strength. He finally arrived at the beach at 2:30 yesterday morning. As his clothes were still in his dressing room and his valuables in the house, he created some anxiety among the employees at Salt Lake. He eventually showed up more dead than alive, nearly perished with the cold wind that was blowing. He returned to the city by the first train.

Soon after he arrived it was found that a boat was missing at the beach. There is no sign of it floating on the lake today. Manager Langford stated this morning that there was a rumor to the effect that there is a lone boatman who went out on the lake in the boat, but he could not verify it. If such is the case it would be impossible to render him any assistance as long as the waves are running as high as they are at present. It is hoped that if the rumor is true that the boat has been beached and the venturesome mariner has washed ashore.

THIRTY-SIX MILES AN HOUR.

There is a 35 hours wind storm on, with the wind from the southeast. It has blown steadily, night and day, and great clouds of dust have filled the air and sifted into dwelling places the discomfort of housekeepers. It has been a hot wind following on the departing heels of the cold spell, and is due to this part of the country being the center of a low barometric area. The local weather office says the wind is likely to continue until the low area moves eastward, and when that will be no telling.

The wind attained a velocity of 36 miles an hour, and at Modena the wind reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour, filling the air full of flying sand, and making it extremely uncomfortable for the people in that part of the state. The last two days in this city have been very uncomfortable.

HAT ISLAND CREW.

Blair Richardson, his brother Earl and about 10 others left Salt Lake for Hat Island on the gasoline launch "Galloping Tiger" Saturday night. They had not gone long when the wind increased and waves became suddenly unpropitious and to add to the discomfort of the young mariners the supply of food was exhausted. For a time it looked as though all would be forced to swim ashore. However, a wet blanket was brought into play and by means of this the blaze aboard was extinguished. Then the boys transferred themselves to a sail boat which they were towing and pulled for the shore, leaving Hat Island without a visit. They arrived safely at Salt Lake yesterday morning.

LOUBET ARRIVES IN ENGLAND.

President of the French Republic Given a Hearty Welcome at Dover on Behalf of King Edward—Pier Lined With Troops—Band Played the "Marseillaise."

Dover, Eng., July 6.—The French cruiser Guichen having President Loubet on board was sighted at 12:45 p. m. The Guichen anchored off Dover shortly after 1 o'clock and exchanged salutes with Dover castle. The admirals and captains of the British fleet immediately repaired on board the French cruiser and paid official visits to President Loubet.

At 1:45 p. m. when President Loubet stepped ashore here and entered a reserved enclosure, draped lightly with a bathing suit, he was met by where a handsome pavilion has been erected. Then the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by the French ambassador, M. Cambon, and a number of officials, accompanied him to the pier. M. Loubet, during his visit, extended to the president King Edward's welcome.

The Prince of Wales pier was lined with troops and as the president traversed their ranks towards the pavilion a band played the "Marseillaise." The president was then attended to at all points of vantage gave the distinguished visitor an unmistakably cordial welcome on his arrival in England. The president was then escorted to the meeting place of the Duke of Connaught and the Duke of Connaught was most cordial in his greeting. The king's pleasure in the president's arrival was expressed by the Duke of Connaught, who was escorted by a detachment of life guards, was then driven through the crowded, troop-lined and well decorated streets to St. James palace.

M. Loubet was loudly cheered everywhere.

At the Marlborough house were the children of the Prince and Princess of Wales, who saluted the president and the king, the latter recognizing his presence by the windows of the palace. The president then stood up and saluted the youngsters.

double line of British battleships and cruisers, extending two and a half miles, and forming the most imposing naval fleet ever seen here.

The vessels were dressed from stem to stern and their crews manned ship and mingled their cheers with the roar of the guns firing salutes and the strains of the "Marseillaise" from the naval bands. Each ship gave the president a salute of 21 guns, as the Guichen passed and the band of each vessel in turn took up the piece.

After decorating a few notabilities, M. Loubet proceeded to the French cruiser Guichen, which sailed for Dover, England, at 11:30 a. m.
